1. There are attached our responses to the three questions you put to us the other day following the White House session Monday night. The answer to your fourth question will be along shortly.

2. We have actually treated the question relating to our goals in MBFR as two questions. What do we really want from MBFR? How do we answer Brezhnev if he asks the same questions?

3. I would like to reinforce Stoertz' advice that we be very cautious on the question of a comprehensive test ban. This

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy to the DCI for National Intelligence ^{RL}

SUBJECT: Preferred Reductions in Soviet Strategic Forces

Dick

Last Thursday, Hank Knoche told us informally about a fourth question the President had raised with Cabinet members, in addition to the three which Hank had previously requested the NIOs and the DDI to consider. This fourth question was: "What kind of reductions would you want to see in Soviet strategic forces by 1985?" Attached is a contribution by  and myself to Hank's thinking about this question.
